Laws Effective August 1st Will Have This Effect-Will Make Tax Dodging Difficult-New Provisions About Estates and National Banks With Savings Departments.

A favorite maxim, "Nothing is sure but death and taxes," will truthfully materialize in operation as well as in theory in Connecticut beginning with Aug. 1. The principle of justice in taxastion, that it be shared by the subjects of the government in accordance with their respective abilities to pay, determined by the value of their properties, has long been ordained by the statutes of this state. The proficient legislature of 1915, however, oreated a shield or equality in the administration of the incidence and collection of a tax on certain intangible personally and property in general. other choses in action and property in general which has evaded taxation in the past are subject to the provisions of the law. The state will retain two per cent, of the ten per cent tax collected from an estate and forward the balance to the town of the decedent's domicile.

On Bonds, Notes and Deposits. Chapter 293 of the Public Acts of 1815, in effect August 1, provides that any person having in his possession taxable bonds, notes, moneys on deposit in banks in excess of $100 in other than savings banks, and who has not paid a tax on it for the past five years may list it with the state treasurer on or before September 15, and pay a tax of four mills per annum thereon. In the settlement of estates of persons deceased on or after num thereon. In the settlement of estates of persons deceased on or after August I, the act provides that the administrator or executor of the estate in filing the appraisal and inventory in the probate court shall include an affidavit stating the property therein contained on which state or municipal taxes have been paid during the previous year. A copy of the affidavit is submitted to the tax commissioner upon whom falls the dextrous discrimination of taxable and non-taxable property; the examination of evicrimination of taxable and non-tax-able property; the examination of evi-dence regarding the period of posses-sion of the property prior to the death of the decedent and last, but not least, the imposition of a tax of 2 per cent, per annum for five years, which tax it is necessary for the estate to pay before the discharge of the adminis-trator will be permitted.

The law will be prolific in the in-crease of the state's revenue because of the enforcement of the tax on se-curities in the hands of the holders, and the individual who takes advantage of the permission to list his prop tage of the permission to use his property within the next six weeks with the state treasurer and pay the 2 per cent, tax thereon, and thus saves his estate in case of his death the payestate in ment of 10 per cent. as a penalty for his neglect is a circumspective Shy-

The Civil war veterans of Norwich and the towns around are beginning to make definite plans for getting back to the reunions of the two regiments that went to the war out of this part of the state 50 years ago. It is a little bit harder each year for the old soldiers to get around and each time there are faces that are missed from the gatherings, but they are inspiriting meetings, and serve purposes at once pleasant for the veterans and instructive to the held in the Buckingham Memorial, the lists's on Wednesday, Aug. 18. end that of the 26th on the next day. For neither of the reunions are especially formal programmes planned, for the old soldiers have their best time sitting around and field and the things that happened then and since. Of course, there are other enjoyable features, and not the least of them is the fine dinner that is served each year by the Woman's Relief corps.

Savings in National Sanks.

Another act worthy of public Acts of 1915, which provides that national banks maintaining savings departments may save the depositors in such departments liability from taxation by electing to make a payment annually of 1-4 of 1 per cent. to the state on the total amount of their deposits as of Oct. 1 with certain deductions. An election to pay the tax is filed with the tax commissioner on or before the thirtieth day of next September. Such towns in their reports to the tax commissioner after Aug. 1 will be required to include the value of such specially exempted property as part of the grand list and the taxes which would have been payable on such valuation if the property were taxed. These amounts will be used in the computation of the state tax causing a town to pay a state tax on 100 pounds, is regarded very favorably in railroad and other quarters in Washington. It is taken as evidence of a new era in the history of the interstate commerce commission and as indicating a commendable disposition to correct past errors.

Express rates under present conditions are made up on the basis of three factors: An allowance of 20 cents for collection and delivery of each shipment, which does not vary with marks or distance; a rail with weight or distance; a rail terminal allowance of 25 cents per 100 pounds, which varies with the weight, but not the distance; and the rail transportation rate for 100 pounds, which varies with the weight, the distance and the zone.

The effect of the change will be in the computation of the state tax, causing a town to pay a state tax on property located therein receiving special privileges of exemption.

The town of Stafford recently voted an exemption to the Hope mill for a period of ten years, which action the present governor when attorney general ruled to be absolutely illegal on the part of any municipality. The adventage of a town in securing the The effect of the change will be the part of any municipality. The advantage of a town in securing the location of an industry from which it receives no taxes will be lessened, and to increase the allowance for collec-tion and delivery to the extent of s-cents for each shipment and reduce the rail terminal allowance at the rate of one-twentieth of one cent per pound. the inequality between towns will be eliminated by the state taxation of such exempted property. As the weight increases the 5 per cent. increase allowed for packages of five pounds or less is gradually decreased, so that on shipments of more than 100 pounds there will be no reduction from present rates, and on some packages of eighty-five pounds and more there will be no reduction.

The scale allowed by the commission above five pounds on first class traffic is as follows:

On packases of from 6 to 23 pounds, a 4 per cent, increase, 30 to 49 pounds, 2 per cent.; 71 to 90 pounds, 1 per cent.

The commission makes this exception:

From 17 Members to 177,132.

The growth and development of the D. A. R. has been almost phenomenal. The number of members has increased from 17 to 177,132, with many more applications pending. It has chapters in every state in the union, as well as in England, France, China, Japan, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines. It has acquired a tract of ground in Washington at a cost of over $50,000 and has erected thereon a beautiful Memorial Continental hall, a large proportion of which has already been paid.

"Certain weights will, however, differ slightly from the figures given, due to the disposition of fractions, and not all shipments of over $5 pounds will be increased."

The commission says further:

"Whore the above is representative of the increase on first class it reaffic, second class shipments will be increased."

Under the plan proposed the distance a shipment is hauled has no bearing upon the proposed increase in rates, except in so far as they may be affected by the easting off of fractions of one half cent. Or the addition of one cent when the fraction exceeds one half."

The commission finds in its report that the revenues of the leading express companies decreased about 9.21 per cent, in 1915 from what they were the year before, while operating expenses decreased only .96 per cent. The net operating rev-1913 to a deficit of $1,132,$11 in enues decreased from $1,253,428 in 1915. The commission found that in 1915 the express companies handled 2,225,928 more shipments than in the year before, with a decrease in revenue of more than $13,500,000.

The average revenue per shipment of the Adams Express company, for example, decreased nearly 12 cents on each shipment; that of the American Express company more than 7 1-2 cents; that of the Southern Express company nearly 9 cents, and that of the Wells Fargo company nearly 6 cents.
